

Layered Cherry Bath Bombs

Bright and colorful fizzing bath treats

Ingredients

- 2 pounds Dead Sea Salt, Medium
- 1 pound Baking Soda
- 8 ounces Citric Acid
- 8 ounces White Kaolin Clay
- 2 ounces Mango Butter, melted
- 2 teaspoons Cherry Plant-Based Fragrance Oil
- 1/4 teaspoon FDA Blue Mica
- 1/4 teaspoon FDA Coral Mica
- sprayer filled with 1/2 rubbing alcohol and 1/2 water

Makes about seventeen bath bombs

Directions:

1. Combine salt and fragrance oil in mixing bowl and stir well. Divide salt in equal portions between two bowls. Add one color of mica to each bowl and stir well to fully coat salt.
2. Combine baking soda, citric acid, and kaolin clay in food processor and pulse until powders are an equal texture and well blended. Divide this powder equally between the two bowls of salt.
3. Drizzle 1 ounce of melted mango butter over the first bowl, and mix well. Repeat with remaining oil in second bowl.
4. Starting with one bowl of powder, spritz with several sprays of alcohol and water mixture, then work by hand to mix thoroughly. Repeat this step until the powder just starts to clump together, similarly to damp sand. Repeat this process with the second bowl of powder.
5. Pack about 2 heaping tablespoons of pink powder into your mold, followed by a layer of blue, then another layer of pink, and a second layer of blue. Press the powder down firmly to pack it. When the mold is very firmly packed gently tip it over and tap out the bath bomb.
6. Allow the bath bombs to dry for at least 24 hours before packaging them in an airtight wrapper. Add the Kaolin Clay, and mix until wet ingredients have been fully absorbed.

Usage & Packaging:

- Fizzing bath products must be kept away from humidity during storage. Once you are certain they are completely dried out, wrap them tightly in plastic wrap or cellophane. Our Small Cellophane Bags would be a great storage solution for this product.
- To use, simply drop one bath bomb into the tub. The product will fizz and dissolve in minutes.
