

Whipped Tamanu Shea Butter

a soothing whipped body butter

- 3 ounces Tamanu Oil
- 2 1/2 ounces Shea Butter
- 1/2 ounce Beeswax
- 1 teaspoon Arrowroot Powder
- 1 teaspoon Silk Powder, Superfine
- 1/2 teaspoon Vanilla Essential Oil (or Oleoresin or Fragrance Oil)
- 1/4 teaspoon Rose Essential Oil
- 1/4 teaspoon Sandalwood Essential Oil

This recipe makes about nine ounces, by volume.

Directions

1. Heat the Shea Butter in a double boiler over medium heat until it has melted completely. Set the burner to low, then allow the Shea Butter to remain over the heat for twenty minutes.
2. Add the Beeswax, and let it melt completely. Remove the mixture from the heat and set aside.
3. In a small bowl or container whisk the Arrowroot and Silk Powder with the Tamanu Oil.
4. Add the Tamanu mixture to the Shea Mixture, followed by the Essential Oils.
5. Whisk the mixture continuously as it cools and thickens. To speed the process, try placing ice water into the lower half of your double boiler and using an electric hand mixer to whisk.
6. When the butter has thickened to the consistency of buttercream frosting it can be either spooned or piped into jars. Let the butter cool and set completely before use. About thirty minutes in a refrigerator will do the trick.

Usage & Packaging

Whipped butters look lovely in clear jars. Try packaging Whipped Tamanu Shea in 4 oz. Flint Glass Jars or in 4 oz. Flat PET Jars.

To use, simply apply generously to your hands, feet, arms, legs and torso. The butter will sit on your skin for a little while before being absorbed.
