

White Chocolate & Vanilla Bean Bath Melts

Luscious bath melts made with cocoa butter

Ingredients

- 3 ounces (180 grams) honey
- 2 1/2 ounces (70 grams) Cocoa Butter, melted
- 1 1/4 ounces (35 grams) Brazil Nut Oil
- 1 1/4 ounces (35 grams) Macadamia Nut Oil
- 1 1/2 cups (360 ml) Whole Milk Powder, divided
- 1 vanilla bean

This recipe makes about 1-dozen bath truffles

Directions:

1. Slice open vanilla bean lengthwise and scrape out seeds. Bean casing may be reserved for another use. Combine seeds with milk powder in food processor and pulse for 30-60 seconds, or until vanilla beans have been well dispersed. Transfer 1 cup milk powder to large mixing bowl and set aside the last 1/2 cup for later.
2. Combine honey, cocoa butter, and oils in a small bowl and whisk vigorously.
3. Quickly pour oil mixture over 1 cup milk powder and mix well to form a crumbly dough.
4. Line tray or platter with wax paper. Using your hands, roll the mixture into small balls and set them on the wax paper. A good portion of liquid may drip out of the balls. This may be discarded.
5. Allow the balls to set and harden for at least two hours, then roll the balls in the remaining 1/2 cup milk powder.

Usage & Packaging:

- Pack your bath truffles in airtight containers like our Small Cello Bags or 16 ounce Flint Glass Jars.
- To Use, simply drop one or two melts into warm bath water.
